VESS “Next Generation” Medical Student Symposium

by
Peter R. Nelson, MD, MS,
VESS President

The Vascular and Endovascular Surgery Society (VESS) has become the preeminent society nationally for young vascular surgeons across academic, hospital-based, and private practice settings and therefore is committed to providing a forum to advance our field through education and scholarship. With attention to both the science (basic, translational, and clinical) and the art of vascular care (medical, open, and endovascular), VESS strives to facilitate the interchange of new knowledge while providing mentorship, leadership development, and advocacy on behalf of its membership.

These efforts are particularly relevant to not only the young vascular surgeon, but also the students and trainees who follow aspiring for a career in vascular surgery. Therefore, VESS is pleased to announce a new program at the 2018 Annual Meeting in Vail, CO called the Next Generation Symposium. This program is aimed at achieving the following programmatic goals:

1. To introduce medical students from around the country to the dynamic specialty of vascular surgery.
2. To embrace the students and make them feel part of the fellowship atmosphere of the VESS annual meeting.
3. To provide opportunity for meaningful interaction between the students and vascular surgery residents, fellows, and young faculty in attendance.
4. To share the latest research directing the future of our specialty.
5. To facilitate new opportunities for mentorship between the students and VESS members and leadership.
6. To provide practical guidance for the students such that they feel better prepared to make important career decisions.

The program will feature a combination of didactic lectures, small group sessions, and hands-on simulation to achieve these goals. There will be opportunity for open discussion of relevant questions and time for interaction between student and vascular trainees. In addition, ample opportunity will exist for spontaneous encounters between the students and VESS members throughout the weekend that are guaranteed to provide less formal, yet more impactful interaction. The Foundation for Vascular Innovation (FVI) will provide each student in attendance a $1000 scholarship to defray the cost of travel to the meeting.

VESS TECHNOLOGY FORUM THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 2018 • 2:30 – 5:30 P.M.

The 2018 Tech Exchange will focus on broad vascular pathology and will showcase some of the best that industry has to offer! In addition to highlighting aortic endografts, peripheral and embolization technology and the latest in venous care, we will also be showcasing current and advanced capabilities in medical imaging. The emphasis of this program is for industry to provide insight into current and up-and-coming technology, as well as what treating physicians may see in the near future as it relates to developments in the pipeline. It will also provide opportunity for an intensive, hands-on experience in a small group format that provides a granular experience for the participating physicians.

The Next Generation Symposium is truly an investment in the future of our specialty by empowering the next generation of medical students to experience the clinical challenges, technological innovation, translational research, and fellowship that defines our important specialty. It requires a collaborative effort between medical schools, individual vascular surgeons, vascular societies like VESS, vascular surgical leadership, and industry partners alike to successfully recruit this country's "best and brightest" to our specialty.
